

B2B compliance platform with major update

New Features for bizpando: Enterprise Structure, Reports and REST API

- Platform solution enables supply chain transparency for the implementation of supply chain laws and whistleblower protection laws
- New premium functions 'Enterprise Structure', 'Reports' and 'Connect (REST API)' complement existing features such as complaint management with 'whistlehorn'
- Basic and premium functions simplify the process for SMEs and corporations alike

Hünenberg/Bremen, May 29, 2024: bizpando, the digital solution for implementing supply chain laws like the German LkSG, has released new platform functions. Companies of all sizes and from all industries now have the option of using extended premium functions in addition to the free basic functions. The new features 'Enterprise Structure', 'Reports' and 'Connect (REST API)' complement already available solutions such as complaint management with the 'whistlehorn' add-on. The basic functions remain free of charge for everyone.

bizpando is a B2B platform on which supply chain laws can be implemented in a smart and collaborative way. In 2023, bizpando has experienced strong growth: over 2,000 companies from 25 countries are now represented on the platform. Based on the sharing economy, bizpando users gain insight into the LkSG compliance of their suppliers at all levels of the supply chain with little effort.

'We have implemented important customer suggestions and are now pleased to provide further options to make compliance processes even more efficient and cost-effective,' says Jasper Bhaumick, CEO of bizpando AG. 'With these new functions, companies can map their entire structure worldwide, compile the necessary reporting data and integrate their systems seamlessly.'

The new 'Enterprise Structure' function enables companies to map their group of companies on the bizpando platform. Whether several branches or subsidiaries - the flexible system makes it possible to integrate locations worldwide and structure them across several levels. The structure increases findability: customers or suppliers can also find the subcontractors and locations with which they primarily work. The entire company structure with connections and results is visualised and can be exported, which significantly increases transparency in the supply chain.

The 'Reports' feature supports companies in fulfilling the various legal requirements in CSR and specific reporting and documentation obligations. With this function, data can be exported and customised reports can be created. This function provides a clear and concise overview of all compliance activities on the bizpando platform and facilitates communication with external organisations. Among other things, this enables companies to fulfil their obligations to make efforts within the framework of the German Supply Chain Act.

The 'Connect' function enables companies to import their customers and suppliers to the bizpando platform via REST API and export compliance results. This allows processes to be automated and compliance data to be reused in internal systems.

Further bizpando features for supply chain transparency and CSR are already in development. For more information about bizpando, please visit www.bizpando.com.

About bizpando:

bizpando is a B2B platform on which supply chain laws can be implemented in a smart and collaborative way. With just a few clicks, companies can bring transparency to their entire supply chain. Based on the principle of the sharing economy, all information only needs to be entered once and is then digitally available to stakeholders. Free basic functions such as self-disclosure using standardised questionnaires and supplier registration simplify the process for suppliers and customers alike. Auditors and companies can contact each other via the platform. The auditors can then document the results of the orders digitally on bizpando so that the companies can share the certificate they have received with their digital supply chain. With the help of the whistleblower function 'whistlehorn', bizpando users can also report whistleblower cases quickly, easily and securely, process them themselves or use external service providers to do so.
